

The Adair County News.

VOLUME XV

COLUMBIA, ADAIR COUNTY, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY OCT. 30, 1912.

NUMBER 52

The News, next week, will not be issued until Wednesday. The election will be Tuesday and by holding over until Wednesday we will be able to let our readers know the result of the election.

The Road We Must Have.

The proposed automobile pike-way from Columbia, Ky., to Jamestown, Ky., will have less grades and will cost less money than any road of its length that may be built in the State and I doubt if there is another prospective road in the State that would promise more to more people than this proposed road.

First, it will be a paying investment to the stock-holders from the start. Second, it will revolutionize the entire commercial phase of Southern Ky. This proposed road is the key to a large number of counties that have no railroad advantages, but now the automobile has come to the relief of such as have no rail road. A good pike with automobile service would be a greater blessing to more people than a railroad. With the rapid transit of autos the traveling public can make schedule time, and will leave the heavy hauling for men who have teams, and they can do this hauling and save money without paying their hard earned money "to the mud tax." This mud tax demands greater tribute from the tax-payers of this country than all other taxes combined and many times more. When this road is completed from Columbia to Jamestown, this will be the incentive for other roads. It will be but a short time until the Dunnville pike will be extended to intercept at Russell Springs, and others extending from Columbia to other points; but the one main essential road, is the twenty-one miles that will connect us with Campbellsville and Greasy Creek boat landing on Cumberland River.

Any one who will make this proposed road a study can see at a glance that such a road will effect three of the largest commercial cities in our country, and will turn through this section of country a stream of commerce that will materially affect every body in the entire country. It will set the wheels to rolling; it will enhance the value of real estate. It will bring new life and vigor into the country. It will bring good citizenship, better schools, better churches, and will help us in many ways that we have not space to mention. I want to say here that I have found this the best tomato growing section in the State. In a grocery store in Columbia, there were eleven tomatoes, grown this section, weighing twelve pounds. I saw sorghum in Jamestown—a home product, that would bring from 75cts to 1.10 per gallon in the market. Big Sandy, for no other country I have seen, can produce such quality of syrup.

I believe that this land between Columbia and Jamestown can be made to yield one hundred dollars per acre to the man who will make it yield up its sweetness to him.

Men lets have this road. We propose to build this road by subscription, and the man who will work out his stock according to specifications of directors after the company is organized. Let me hear from any one interested.

Yours for the road,
J. P. Bicknell,
Berea, Ky.

Mr. W. R. Gellman, of Lebanon, was calling on our merchants one day last week, and while in town called the attention of the Newsman to the importance of improving the Confederate graves and monument on Green River hill between this place and Campbellsville. He also stated that the movement was to acquire the ground, re-erect the monument on concrete foundation, build a cement fence around the premises, and enrich the ground for blue grass, and when done, keep it in good condition. This will require money and the people of Adair and Taylor counties ought to respond liberally to this work. No one after seeing the monument, can doubt the importance of this step, and no one who cherishes good will and love for those who died in that unfortunate struggle can justify further neglect. Their graves should be kept green, the marble shaft white and the entire premises protected from the ravages of time.

The first day of the Russell circuit court, A. Hinn, of this place, bought five mules ranging in price from $135 to $200. Brack Masle was also in attendance and he bought three at an average of $150 per head.

In making up last week Mr. N. B. Miller's letter got mixed with another communication, and the beginning of the letter was overlooked. We reproduce it in full this week.

Curing Conceit.

In an article on "The Training of a Child" in the November Woman's Home Companion the author, Mary Louise Graham, writes, in part:

"I know that forgetfulness of self can be attained, even when it has been conspicuously denied by nature. This is a very intimate little story that I am about to tell, but I feel that it has in it a lesson of real value.

"When I was myself a young girl, I was very conceited, and for no greater cause than that I had a good intellect and could learn easily what the other girls at school found hard. The realization of my own conceit came to me through other people's criticism of me. For some time I puzzled over what to do. It is so long ago that I do not remember whether the solution came all in a moment, or whether I gradually lived into the understanding of the truth, that I might know that I was clever, but that it would never harm me so long as I placed no emphasis on the fact. Every time I found myself dwelling with satisfaction on some display of my own intellect, I tried to shut out the thought. It was very hard at first: I did so love my complacent, conceited thoughts, and for a time I would occasionally indulge myself in them. Still, in time the device actually did work, and it set in motion other subconscious processes. Whenever I came back to thoughts of myself, I found a new humility, which I learned to feel more precious than my old conceit.

"After a time conceited thoughts ceased to give me any pleasure; instead, they brought a curious sense of shame, as if some one had praised me for a noble act that I had not done. I had come to see myself in a true proportion, and to realize the absolute unimportance of my poor little mind. This is not words: It is the literal truth."

Will Start This Week.

Mr. J. B. Barbee, who has been the proprietor of the stage line between Columbia and Campbellsville for a number of years, requests us to state that he has dropped in line with the procession, and that his two automobiles will start this week. He had them made especially for the line between Campbellsville and Columbia, and each car will have a seating capacity of eighteen. The cars will be lighted with electricity and heated from the engine, making travel quick and comfortable between the two towns. Watch for them they are expected to make their first round today.

Last Notice to Tax-Payers.

I, or one of my deputies, will meet the tax-payers of Adair county at the following times and places to receive your taxes for the year 1912. These taxes are now past due and must be paid at once. I trust that every taxpayer will take advantage of this opportunity to meet and settle same, and save trouble and cost, both to you and myself. Will be at:

Cane Valley, Saturday, Nov. 10.
Kinley, Saturday, Nov. 21.
Riley, Friday, Nov. 22.
Pellyton, Thursday, Nov. 21.
MaGaha Friday, Nov. 15.
Roy, Thursday, Nov. 14.

Mr. L. H. Cabel was in Columbia last Wednesday. He stated to News representative that the work on the pike from Greensburg to the Adair county line was moving along nicely. He further stated that the pike was graveled to Ebenezer church, six miles this side of Greensburg, and that a pike would be built from Miami to main pike, tapping it at Ebenezer church. Adair county, in order to meet the Greensburg pike will have about seven miles to build.

Mr. M. O. Stevenson, one of Adair's prosperous farmers, met with a very serious accident last Wednesday. He was sawing wood when a large cut made the wrong turn, and fell upon his left leg, mashing his knee very badly. He drove in town last Friday, but it will be several weeks before he will have good use of the crippled limb.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered stomach. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and correct that and the headaches will disappear. For sale by Paull Drug Co.

A. S. Chewning's Sale.

Russell County Loses a Good Citizen.

Sunday afternoon, the 30th, inst., a lamentable and sudden death occurred at Jabez, Russell county. Mr. Alvin Hatfield, who was a prominent farmer, the father of Dr. A. A. Hatfield, arose in his usual health, ate breakfast, went to Sunday school and attended preaching at the 11 o'clock hour. After dinner he entertained company until late in the afternoon, feeling in fine spirits all the time. Immediately after supper he was taken sick and died in an hour or two. He was a man for whom every body had the highest regard and he will be greatly missed from the neighborhood, his death being a sad blow to his family. He was about sixty-nine years old.

Asa Roy Dead.

Mr. Asa Roy, who lived near Roy, this county, died at his home last Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. He had been on the decline for five or six months. He was an ex-Federal soldier, seventy-four years old and a good citizen.

A New Thing.

Stenotypy is the latest in the line of rapid writing. It is a kind of shorthand written on a machine called the stenotype, and has already reached a speed of three to six times that of shorthand. The Bowling Green Business University has installed it, and is teaching it in connection with shorthand.

Mr. F. L. Smith, of Cane Valley, who was given a fine at the last term of circuit court for malicious shooting, has been released from the State's part of the fine by Governor McCreary. The Governor in writing the pardon states that the evidence upon which Smith was convicted, was circumstantial, no witness swearing that the accused fired the shot. Several of the jurors who tried Smith, joined in the petition for clemency.

All denominations were represented at the Presbyterian church last Sunday forenoon. Mr. Crawford preached one of the strongest sermons he has delivered since his pastoral here, and it met the approval of the entire audience.

Hon. William Jennings Price, of Danville, will speak at the court house, next Monday, at 1 o'clock in the interest of the Democratic party. He is a fine speaker. Come out and hear him.

A Good Woman Dies In the Zion Neighborhood.

Mrs. Annie E. Cabbell, one of the oldest and noblest women in the Zion community near Joppa, died October 14th, 1912. She was a daughter of Robert and Clemmie Montgomery, and was born December 28, 1832.

She was married to William F. Cabbell, Jan. 13, 1851. To this union were born six sons and two daughters, all of whom are living and attended the funeral services.

It was a very unusual occurrence for the six sons to be the pall-bearers of the mother's remains. But it was a last privilege to express their appreciation of a mother's love and services to them.

Three of the brothers, James, Ed and Frank, live in the west. Three of them, Lucien, Robert and Ruel live in this county—Adair.

These are noble sons, which the mother has left as a heritage to the county and church and neighborhoods in which they dwell.

Mrs. John Young, one of the daughters, lives near the old home. Miss Antha lives in the home with her brothers, Ruel and Robert.

Mrs. Cabbell was a member of the Christian Church, having made the good confession in girlhood. She lived a faithful Christian life to the end.

Her children are all, but one, Christians. Her counsel and early teaching will never be forgotten by her children, and has already influenced them to live nobly.

One sister, Mrs. Will Montgomery, remains to mourn the loss of this good woman.

May the Lord's blessing rest upon children, grand children and relatives who are bereft by the going forth of this aged Christian, and may they, like she, be ready when they must go into the great eternity.

F. J. Barger and Z. T. Williams took part in the funeral services.

"Thou art gone to the grave; but we will not deplore thee,
"Thy sorrows and darkness encompass the tomb;
The Savior has passed thro' its portals before thee.

And the lamp of his love was thy guide thro' the gloom.
Thou art gone to the grave; but we will not deplore thee,
Since God was thy Ransom, thy Guardian, thy Guide;
He gave thee, He took thee, and He will restore thee;
And death has no sting, since the Savior has died."

Announcement.

Miss Elma Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Page and a niece of Mr. Jas. T. Page, this place, will be married on the 19th of November to Mr. Irwin Frazer, Cleburne, Texas. Miss Page closed a years visit to Columbia a few months ago. She is a young lady of pleasing disposition and her many admirable characteristics won the friendship of the entire town.

An Old Soldier Dead.

Mr. W. T. Acre, who served in the 13th Kentucky Infantry, and in Capt. O. B. Patterson's Company, died at his late home, near Roy, last Friday night.

He was about sixty-nine years, old, and his death was the result of an accident. About two months ago he was kicked on the leg by a horse, breaking it. Subsequently the limb was amputated, and a few weeks thereafter death followed.

Mr. Acre was a good citizen and had many friends in the neighborhood where he lived and died.

Public Sale.

On Saturday November the 9th, I will sell my household and kitchen furniture, also 2 good cows and jersey heifer calf, 2 good hogs, one good mare, farm implements and other articles too numerous to mention. Sale at my residence near Columbia, being at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Nora McColfree.

U. P. Morgan sold his farm last week to J. A. Young, of Cumberland county for two thousand dollars. The farm lies about one mile this side of Glenville and is known as the Simon P. Taylor farm. The purchaser is a brother to Mr. Jas. H. Young, this place, and was born and reared in Adair county, but has been living in Cumberland county for about eighteen years.

The Last of the Three.

The springs robes of nature were lovely
When warbling songsters are gay,
Though weary, despondent, and lonely.

He tarried in grief by the way,
To visit the old country graveyard,
One that he'd known long ago,
Where many a mourner had lingered
To witness their loved ones laid low.

The old church near by appeared gloomy
As if a sad mourner long fears,
With those who lamented their lost ones

To give silent grief for their tears,
That stand as a watchman, on duty,
A sentinel knowing no dread,
The slumbering camp of the dead.

He mused upon fond recollections
Written on life's brightest page,
Of those he had known in his boyhood,
And others familiar in age.

Considering life's transient season
With all of its fashion and show;
As waters that flow to the ocean,
Our lives to eternity go.

In reverie sad, but enchanting,
Fond accents again he could hear;
Dear, in ages of the departed,
Imagined, they still lingered near,
Invisible to mortal vision,
As ministering spirits around
Where all that was mortal now sleep-eth

Bedeath this hallowed ground.

Near two marble head stones he tarried,
And silently dreamed of the past,
Of kind and affectionate parents,
For he was the first and the last.

While visions of loved ones and children
By memory still see,
Though bowed now by age and affliction,

The last of the once happy three.

Twenty-Five Men in 48 Hours.

The News comes from Bowling Green that the Business University there claims it could put twenty-five telegraph operators in positions within 48 hours, so great is the demand for good men. This school has just filled eighteen positions, and has thirty-seven on hand unfilled. This looks good.

Reesen Ewing, who was one of Adair county's best colored men, died in the suburbs of Columbia last Thursday afternoon. He was seventy-old years old, and during life he so conducted himself as to win the respect of the white people generally. We never heard of him being brought before court for any offense. He was industrious and when in health his services were at all times in demand. He will be missed by his people.

The iron bridge across Russell's creek, at the Park Ford, was completed last Wednesday. It is said to be excellent piece of work, and the Fiscal court met last Saturday and received it. It will prove of incalculable value to the traveling public and the people of the neighborhood.

Mr. R. F. Paull, of this place, sold Mr. Clayton Parish, of Robertson, Cumberland county, one Aberdeen Angus male calf, four months old, for $500. This is said to be the best calf ever sold in Adair county, and considered.

Ed Terpin, a boy about 15 years old, killed Lewis Shive, a boy 16 years old last Sunday. The killing occurred at Moore's Spring, Metcalfe county, and the weapon used was a rock.

The Semi annual communion service will be observed at Union Presbyterian church on next Sabbath. There will also be preaching at 10:30 a. m. Saturday. Everybody invited.

Rev. J. R. Crawford will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

Next Monday will be county court. Hon. William Jennings Price will speak at the court-house.

Be in town next Monday and hear Hon. William Jennings Price.

Mr. C. R. Royse bought one mule at Jamestown court for $160.

Next Monday will be county court. The day following will be the election.

Will Fill a Long Felt Want.

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 15, 1917.
Mr. Editor:
Some time ago I read in the News of the establishment of an Automobile line between Columbia and Campbellsville for passenger traffic. This was certainly a move in the right direction, and one that will fill a long felt want and sure to be appreciated by the traveling public. The comfort, to say nothing of the time saved, commends itself to all.

I wish to suggest to the enterprising gentlemen who own these machines the advisability of placing an Auto freight truck on the pike to carry freight to and from Columbia.

These trucks are in use here and in other places by the wholesale houses and prove satisfactory, and I believe would prove profitable on the pike.

A round trip could be made daily, and a truck of good size and power would carry twice or thrice that of an ordinary freight wagon now in use, and the gasoline bill would be less than the keep of team.

When I came to Springfield 7 years ago, there were only 4 or 5 automobiles here, and now there are over 200 in use, and of the latest and most improved type, and the number fast increasing.

These machines go all over the country road. It is true we have better roads than in Adair county because they are thrown up and graded, but as a rule not gravelled.

A party from here with 3 machines made a trip to Colorado and returned, and had but one tire punctured. Another party left for the Eastern and New England States and have reached Vermont.

With the advent of automobiles a noticeable improvement in county roads. And many farmers ride into town with their families, or loaded with farm products and return in 2 or 3 hours.

I have read some articles relative to building pikes from Columbia to Jamestown and Creelsboro, all of which I heartily endorse. But the only way to have these pikes is for a reasonable number of men to form a company, secure a charter, right of way, and go to work with a traction engine hooked to a roadgraw, followed by a grader, and rockcrusher, under the direction of a superintendent.

I understand there is a statute under which the county may take stock in and build five miles of pike from county seat whenever citizens will build remainder to the county line. If I am correct and the county will give such aid I am willing to become one of 25 men to build a pike to the river at Creelsboro. I hope the other 24 will speak out and send in names.

While I reside here as an official, I claim my legal residence and citizenship at Columbia, and I feel an interest in the progress and welfare of her people.

N. B. Miller.

Answer to Many Letters.

When you have a bad cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to cure it with as little delay as possible. Here is a druggist's opinion: "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for fifteen years," says Enos Lollar of Saratoga, Ind., "and consider it the best on the market." For sale by Paul Drug Co.

Roosevelt Endorses Bryan.

The following statement was issued by Colonel Roosevelt at Mercy Hospital in answer to what Mr. Bryan said in his speech in Franklin, Ind.

"I wish to express my cordial agreement with the manly and proper statement of Mr. Bryan at Franklin, Ind., when in arguing for a continuance of the discussion of the issues at stake in the contest, he said."

"It is embarrassing to discuss Mr. Roosevelt or his policies at this time, while he is suffering from the murderous assault made upon him."

"I would rather occupy the time in denunciation of the deed and in expression of sympathy for him and hopes for his speedy recovery, but the issues of the campaign should not be determined by the act of a mad man. They must be settled by the sane rather than the insane."

"Neither Col. Roosevelt nor his friends could ask that the discussion be turned away from the principles that are involved. If he is elected president, it should be because of what he has done in the past and what he proposed to do, a maniac, however cowardly and dastardly his deed, is not the arbiter to whom to submit a presidential contest."

The Men Who Succeed

as heads of large enterprises are men of great energy. Success, to-day, demands health. To all is to fail. It's utter folly for a man to endure a weak, run-down, half alive condition when Electric Bitters will put him right on his feet in short order. "Four bottles did me more real good than any other medicine I ever took," writes Chas. B. Allen, Sylvania, Ga. "After years of suffering with Rheumatism, liver trouble, stomach disorders and deranged kidneys, I am again, thanks to Electric Bitters, sound and well." Try them. Only 50 cents at Paul Drug Co.

A Cheap Man.

After buying a marriage license a prospective bridegroom in Paducah "kicked" against paying $3 to a magistrate to tie the knot and with the remark, "I won't pay no three dollars to git married," left for the tall and uncut. Whether he found anybody who would perform the ceremony at a cheaper rate has not been recorded. Possibly he was short of funds or was one of those economical citizens, who do not believe in fooling away money even on such rare occasions as when matrimonial alliances are being entered into by due process of law. In either of these situations, the bride-to-be has been entitled to congratulations, in case the marriage was declared off.—Stanford Journal.

Saved by His Wife.

She's a wise woman who knows just what to do when her husband's life is in danger, but Mrs. R. J. Flint, Braintree, Vt., is of that kind. "She insisted on my using Dr. King's New Discovery," writes Mr. F. "for a dreadful cough, when I was so weak my friends all thought I had only a short time to live, and it completely cured me." A quick cure for coughs and colds, it's the most safe and reliable medicine for many throat and lung troubles—grip, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, tonsillitis, hemorrhages. A trial will convince you. 50cts. and $1. Guaranteed by Paul Drug Co.

An engine weighing 540,000 pounds and having sixteen drive wheels has lately been ordered by a West Virginia railroad to be used in pushing freight cars up a heavy grade.

From two counties in western Colorado, Mesa and Delta, there will have been shipped by the close of the season 5,000 carloads of peaches from orchards covering a territory of not more than 8,000 acres.

The quiet resignation of dwellers in the northern portion of the corn belt in the midst of sweltering weather sorely needed for a belated corn crop is one of the interesting traits of our modern agricultural civilization.

Those interested in the progress of agricultural education will be pleased to learn the fact that the number of special institutions that are teaching agriculture in the United States has increased from 545 to 875 within the last two years.

The first butterfly farm in the world is to be established at Red Bank, N. J., by business men from New York. This is to furnish society ladies who entertain extensively butterflies of rare and beautiful coloring to flit about in their conservatories and parlors.

In some sections of the northern states where the small grain crop has been heavy this season a good deal of annoyance has been caused farmers who have left their grain in the shock by crickets, the insects gnawing the twine with which the bundles were bound.

The department of agriculture at Washington has lately made an offer of 5 cents each for live bedbugs. Doubtless these are needed for strictly scientific purposes, but readers of the daily papers are of the opinion that they are "bughouse" enough now down at Washington without propagating any more of these bloodsucking pests.

In an instance which came under the writer's notice the other day 1,200 goats were used in clearing a large farm of hazel brush. While there was blue grass in the nearby pasture, they kept at the hazel brush until they had it completely barked, browsed and killed. The owner of the farm will realize $4 per head on the animals, besides having them clean up the brush.

Oklahoma seems to have taken the lead in the rapid development of demonstration work for the improvement of farming. It has 1,375 cotton demonstrators, 1,312 corn demonstrators and 481 Kaffir demonstrators, while 9,876 boys of the state are enrolled in clubs the object of which is the growing of these products, and 3,555 girls are enrolled in girls' canning clubs.

One of the most attractive trees to the tourist in the Golden State is the valley oak that dots the meadows and pastures of the Sacramento valley. One of the most symmetrical specimens of this variety of oak, which is broad topped and deep rooted, is found on the Bidwell ranch in Butte county. It has a height of 105 feet, a spread of 212 feet and a diameter ten feet from the ground of nearly ten feet.

It may be a matter of imagination, but the writer is of the impression that the much advertised and vigorously prosecuted fly killing campaign that has been waged the past few months has had a very noticeable effect in reducing the numbers of this common pest. In the immediate neighborhood in which the writer lives there is not one fly where two years ago there were ten. Let the good work go on.

The trouble with Oct. 15 as a state field corn day—a day named by the well known corn specialist, Professor Holden, some years ago—is that in two fall seasons since very heavy and killing freezes have occurred on dates prior to that time. As a result of this even Mr. Holden has recommended Oct. 1 as a proper time to select the seed ears, while there are others who believe that this important item of farm work ought to be attended to not later than Sept. 21.

While the bite of mosquitoes is generally considered harmless except that in the biting process disease germs are introduced into the human system, a number of instances have been reported this year where the bites of these insects have been accompanied with more serious results than follow the sting of bees. A Wisconsin farmer was so savagely and repeatedly bitten by mosquitoes the other day that he not only could not find his way home, but died an hour later as a result of the bites.

The auto is not only a luxury from the standpoint of the pleasure it gives to members of the farmer's family, but it comes well within the class of a great convenience when it is used on emergency trips to town for repairs needed in a busy time.

A member of the New York health commission has decided that there is just as great need for individual drinking vessels for horses as there is for separate cups for folks. The idea has much to commend it, but just how it is to be worked out is a problem.

The proper time to cut the corn for the silo is when the corn plant contains in ears, stalk and leaves the largest amount of food value, and this will be when the lower leaves and husks have begun to turn yellow and when the ear has become firm and dent.

The United States produces two-fifths of the world's output of coal, which in all amounted to about 1,302,500,000 short tons, this country's production amounting to 496,221,163 tons. Great Britain led in coal production until 1890, since which time the United States has held first place.

The equipping of a home forge which need not cost to exceed $6 or $7 and the posting of oneself in regard to the simpler blacksmithing processes would often save both time and money during a rush season of farm work, when more likely than not the town blacksmith is overloaded with the same kind of repair jobs.

One of the largest, if not the largest, peach ranches in the world is situated in southwestern Arkansas. It contains 2,800 acres of bearing trees, and the crop this year totaled 225,000 bushels. It took 1,500 pickers and packers to handle the crop, and these people camped in and near the orchard while the harvest was in progress.

The tomatoes already set on the vines may be hastened to maturity, as well as increased in size, if the vines are pruned back rather heavily. Instead of being used in the growth of new shoots and the setting of more fruit, the strength of the root system will be used in the development of that fruit already on the vines.

The revivifying effect of a heavy rain following a period of protracted drought is said to be due in part to the fact that such a rain contains an unusual amount of nitrogen, which it absorbs from the air as it is precipitated. Samples of such rain water have been found to contain as high as .525 of a grain of ammonia to each gallon.

In view of the oft repeated claim of the physical superiority of the white man over his Indian brother, it is interesting to note that the champion all round athlete of the international Olympic games held at Stockholm, Sweden, while a citizen of the United States in the legal sense of the word, is nevertheless a full blooded Indian of the Sac and Fox tribe.

A long time before the colt gets through sucking it should be petted and handled enough so that it won't be a stranger to it later, when the time comes to break it to driving. The value of many a promising horse is reduced materially because this job of handling is put off until the colt gets set in its ways and not only becomes set, but has the strength to have its own way sometimes.

An increasing number of states are breaking away from the long established contract labor system and instead are employing their convicts in the work of permanent road improvement. The plan in operation means not only labor at a comparatively low cost, but it is found that the outdoor employment, with its sunshine, fresh air and vigorous physical exercise, is a godsend to the men thus employed.

One state pure food commissioner of whom we read the other day proposes to take the necessary legal steps to compel retailers of fruit to protect their products from the flies. He contends that when flies deposit germs on fruit it becomes adulterated within the meaning of the law. Consumers of fruit who are used to seeing flies roost on it before buying would be gratified if this interpretation of food laws should become general.

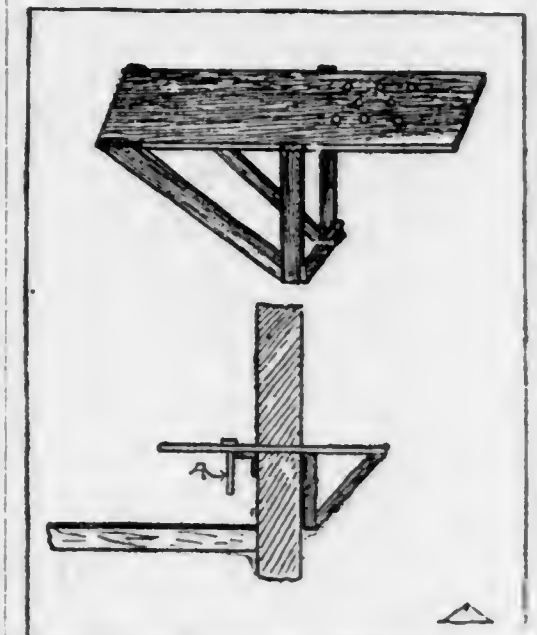

As showing that agricultural lands in the upper Mississippi valley are advancing rapidly in price it is only necessary to cite the case of the north Iowa farmer who listed his farm with a real estate agent a short time ago at $100 an acre. The agent was to have what he could get for the place above the price mentioned, and in a couple of weeks he had found a buyer at a hundred and a quarter. The state of mind of the former owner of this parcel of ground can be better imagined than described.

Although there are quite a number of dairymen who are inclined to discredit the tuberculin test as a means of detecting the presence of tuberculosis in dairy cows and stupidly contend that the test is going out of use, it is interesting to note the fact that every state in the Union except Rhode Island, West Virginia, Nevada, Ohio, Illinois and Florida has laws preventing the importation of dairy animals unless they have been given the tuberculin test and have been found free from disease. It is more than likely that the states mentioned will follow the example of those in which the law is now in force.

GOOD FOR BARN USE.

Variety of Employment May Be Found For Handy Window Jack.
A window jack for repairing, cleaning and painting the windows and the openings in the barn should find a place on every farm. The accompanying illustration will show the reader how such a jack may be easily constructed.

The upper drawing shows the jack completed and will be understood without further elaboration. The lower drawing shows the jack in place in a window. The pin is made of any strong wood, such as oak or hickory, or it may be an iron pin.

As will be seen, several holes are bored in the inside end of the jack and at various angles, so the jack will fit any thickness of walls. The top board should be at least fourteen or sixteen inches wide, and the jack should be well nailed and braced, as illustrated.—Farm and Ranch.

SELECT SEED CORN EARLY.

Many Advantages In This Plan. Keep Close to Type.

One of the main reasons why seed corn should be selected early is to be reasonably sure it will grow the following year when planted, says a Minnesota bulletin.

Early selected seed corn is the corn that usually gives the best stand. Without a good stand it is impossible to get a maximum yield, and it costs no more to raise a yield of corn with a perfect stand than it does to raise a field with a 60 to 70 per cent stand. Every good kernel of corn has in it a live, though very small, corn plant.

This plant is tender and easily injured, unless kept under favorable conditions. Seed corn that is not thoroughly dried before cold weather will freeze. The freezing of the kernel causes it to expand, thus injuring the germ, or little plant, lowering its vitality and often destroying it, so the kernel will not germinate. It is well, if possible, to have every ear of seed corn selected before a killing frost.

In the choice of corn for seed one selects the ears that he believes will give him the largest yield of good corn the following year. It is a good plan to choose an ear of corn that is as near the type wanted as possible, then keep this ear from year to year or until you get a better one. At the rate, have a sample ear that you can look at occasionally to help you in following one. Keep this type handy when selecting corn in the fall and in the spring, when the final selection is made, it is well to compare all ears carefully with the type ear.

TOO BAD!

Let us devote a few minutes of pity to the poor farmer's wife far away from the bargain counter. Her children cannot watch the fire engines pass by. The only place they have to play is God's out of doors. She can not go to the telephone and order, with a careless air, still fruits and wilted vegetables for dinner. She must go out and gather things fresh from the tree and vine. Early in the morning she must get up to see that her better half does not oversleep. She shares the work of the long day with her husband, no time to murmur at her lot; no city joys, only the telephone, the cackling of the hens and rural mail delivery to divert her mind while she is toiling far out in the quiet country.

Orchard and Garden.

After the strawberry bed has been set and cared for through the summer, it should be mulched through the winter. A bed uncovered in the early spring is pretty sure to start to grow too early.

Make a most thorough inspection of all fruit and vegetables before placing them in storage pits or cellar bins. The least abrasion of the skin on fruits will be rot later on, and a speck of rot at this time will mean an entirely ruined product in midwinter, to say nothing of the other products it may contaminate and spoil.

Some rotten manure will be needed next spring to place in the bottom of the flats and probably to mix with soil to be used for seed sowing and transplanting. Now is the time to look out for this supply. Either rotten horse manure or cow manure will serve the purpose. If this cannot be found a compost pile should be made at once and turned a few times during the winter to improve its texture.

TEACHING AGRICULTURE.

That the agricultural course as added to the town high school course may be of definite as well as of very practical value is shown in the work done by this department of the Albert Lea (Minn.) high school during the past year in the matter of forming a cow testing association. A good deal of interesting data were collected, and some valuable facts were brought to light. Among these was the discovery that the poorest herd tested averaged but ninety pounds of butter fat per cow during the year, while the average production of the best herd was 315 pounds of butter fat. In the one case the net profit per cow was $7, while in the second it was over $50. Individual cows that were tested, it was found, had been kept at an actual loss. If the establishment of these agricultural courses in high schools did nothing more than to arouse the farmers of the community to the necessity of weeding out the loafers in their dairy herds they would amply justify their establishment. But they will do much more—not only confer a definite practical good upon the community, but fire many an otherwise indifferent boy with a desire to know more about the fundamental principles of a better as well as more scientific type of agriculture.

PLANTING BULBS.

September is the time for planting a number of the flowering bulbs whose blossoms are prized alike for beauty as well as richness of fragrance. Among these are the calla, crocus, hyacinth, narcissus and tulip. This is for outdoor bedding purposes. For indoor use the bulbs should be put in pots at once or several weeks later, depending upon the time when one wishes to have the plants bloom. The writer has found the four inch tomato can satisfactory for the hyacinth and narcissus, the jagged tops being removed by putting in a bed of coals. The bulbs should be set in these about half an inch below the surface in a light sandy soil, the pots when ready being put in a box and covered with two or three inches of soil and the whole being given a thorough watering. Waterings should be given at intervals so that the soil will be kept moderately moist. A succession of bloom may be had by taking up the pots containing the bulbs after they have rooted, one or two at a time, and placing them where they will develop. In the case of the hyacinth and similar bulbs it is well to remember that the richest bloom is had if the plants are not exposed to the direct sunlight.

A NEEDED LAW PASSED.

The bill mentioned in these notes some weeks ago that provides for the thorough inspection of all imported nursery stock, fruit, vegetables and florists' stock lately passed both houses of congress and became law on receiving the signature of the president. The securing of this needed legislation, in which the United States until now has been behind all other civilized nations, should be a matter of congratulation for all those interested in the tilling of the soil and in its various products in floriculture, horticulture and agriculture. Immense loss has been inflicted upon the interests mentioned by pests that have gained access to the country as a result of there being no adequate inspection regulations in force to ward them off. Decoupling law thus late, the new regulations cannot protect us already sustained, but they will serve to keep other pests out and prevent the spread of a fungus or insect pest from one state to another.

PROTECTION FROM LIGHTNING.

A friend whose house has been hit by lightning three times in the past five years asked the writer the other day about the value of lightning rods as a means of protection during electrical storms. The truth about this matter can be put in a nutshell. A lightning rod poorly insulated and improperly grounded is worse than no rod at all, for while it attracts a bolt of lightning it in no way protects the structure on which it is erected. On the other hand, a rod properly put up comes as near being complete insurance against lightning damage as it is possible to have. Such an equipment should be secured from a reliable firm that has a permanent post office address and put up by one of their representatives, who understands the business thoroughly and not from some tramp who is chiefly concerned in making a wind of easy money by questionable methods.

TAKING CHANCES.

The gambling instinct is as common to the man who tills the soil as to the fellow who hangs around race courses. In the former class it is noticed in his willingness to run the chance of serious damage to his grain through thrashing it from the shock rather than stacking it as soon as cut and thrashing at leisure later in the fall. Probably in one-half the seasons as they come and go shock thrashing may be done with fair satisfaction, but the trouble with the business in states that are subject to late summer rainfall is that one can never forecast the weather a week ahead. The result of this is that if one is on the tall end of the thrashing list and the weather is bad his grain is likely to be in bad shape before he gets it in the bin. If stacked at once the grain can be thrashed at leisure, and the stubble can be plowed early, which is another distinct advantage.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF KENTUCKY

State Convention Will Meet at Paducah

OCTOBER 29 TO NOVEMBER 1.

Famous Musicians to Be Present.
Among Noted Speakers Are W. C.
Pearce, Rev. F. N. Palmer, Rev. W.
Fred Long and Various State Leaders and Divines.

The Forty-seventh Annual Convention of the Kentucky Sunday School
Association will be held in Paducah
Oct. 29-Nov. 1. The state executive committee has put forth every effort to make this the greatest convention ever held in the state, and in forming the program has secured experts covering every department of Sunday School endeavor. The pastor, the superintendent, the teacher, the pupil, the parent, all who are in any way interested in building up a true citizenship for our state and who desire to have the right influences come into the lives of the boys and girls, will find something helpful at the various sessions and conferences of the convention.

The music will be in charge of Professor E. O. Excell of Chicago, who will have as his pianist Professor A.
W. Roper of Winona Lake, Ind. These two men led the music at the World's Sunday School Convention in Washing-

HON. J. B. WEAVER.

Will Preside at Big Sunday School Convention.
Hon. J. B. Weaver of Louisville is the president of the Kentucky Sunday School Association and will preside at the State Convention to be held in Pa-

HON. J. B. WEAVER

duch, Ky., Oct. 29-Nov. 1, besides making one of the addresses at the convention. Mr. Weaver is one of the most popular men in the state and is known to his host of Sunday School friends as "Sunshine Weaver." He has been elected president of the Sunday School Association more times than any one else. He is a very busy lawyer, but finds time to devote to the Sunday School cause.

REV. GEORGE A. JOPLIN.

Kentucky General Secretary Will Speak at Sunday School Convention.
Rev. George A. Joplin of Louisville, Ky., is the general secretary of the

REV. GEORGE A. JOPLIN

Kentucky Sunday School Association
and will be one of the speakers at the annual convention of the association to be held in Paducah, Ky., Oct. 29-
Nov. 1.

MR. E. E. BELL.

Chairman of General Committee of Sunday School Convention.

Mr. E. E. Bell of Paducah, Ky., is the chairman of the general committee that is making arrangements for the

E. E. BELL.

State Convention of the Kentucky Sunday School Association that will meet in Paducah Oct. 29-Nov. 1. Mr. Bell would like to see at least 1,000 visitors attend the convention and sends a cordial invitation to all who are interested in Sunday Schools and the great work they are doing.

MISS MAUDE L. DANCE.

Will Conduct Conference at Sunday
School Convention.
Miss Maude L. Dance of Louisville, Ky., assistant elementary superintendent of the Kentucky Sunday School Association, who will be one of the speakers and conduct one of the conferences at the State Convention of the association to be held in Paducah, Ky., Oct.

29-Nov. 1. This is Miss Dance's first year with the association, but with her pleasant personality and charming way of presenting her topics she has made friends wherever she has visited.

REV. T. C. GEBAUER.

One of Kentucky Sunday School's Leading Field Workers.

Rev. T. C. Gebauer of Henderson, Ky., is one of the field workers of the Kentucky Sunday School who will make their annual reports at the State Convention to be held at Paducah, Ky.

REV. T. C. GEBAUER

Oct. 29-Nov. 1. With his bright smile he has brought joy to many lives and has made the Bible an open book to many homes.

WHERE CONVENTION IS HELD.

Sunday School Meeting to Take Place in Paducah, Ky.

Broadway Methodist Church, Paducah,
Ky., where the annual convention

BROADWAY M. E. CHURCH, PADUCAH, KY.
of the Kentucky Sunday School Association will be held Oct. 29-Nov. 1.
Large numbers of delegates are expected from all parts of Kentucky.

Professor Roper, Pianist.

Professor A. W. Roper of Winona
Lake, Ind., will be the pianist at the State Convention of the Kentucky
Sunday School Association, which will be held in Paducah, Ky., Oct. 29-Nov.
1. Mr. Roper has been the accompanist at all the great Sunday School conventions held in America for the last three years and during the summer has been giving daily piano recitals to audiences of thousands of people

W. J. VAUGHAN.

vention to be held at Paducah, Ky.,
Oct. 29-Nov. 1. Mr. Vaughan has done splendid work in the interests of the Sunday Schools of the state and is a great favorite with all who know him.

MISS FRANCES L. GRIGSBY.

Office Secretary Has Charge of Sunday School Statistics.

Miss Frances L. Grigsby of Louisville is the office secretary of the Kentucky Sunday School Association, which will hold its convention in Paducah, Ky., Oct. 29-Nov. 1. Under her direction the statistics of the Sunday Schools of the state are gathered each year. A Sunday School map showing these statistics will be an interesting exhibit at the convention.

REV. F. N. PALMER.

Bible Student Will Speak at Sunday
School Convention.

Rev. F. N. Palmer, D. D., of Winona Lake, Ind., is a Bible student and teacher of large experience who during the last eight years has been teacher of the English Bible in the Winona schools, during which time, dealing with the boys and girls of the high school age, he has had a rare experience.

working at the problem "How to develop a real interest in Bible study."
Dr. Palmer will have four periods for Bible study at the State Convention of the Kentucky Sunday School Association to be held at Paducah, Ky., Oct.
29-Nov. 1. It will be a wonderful opportunity for the Sunday School teachers to secure just the help they most need.

of Lincoln County.

The News, next week, will not be issued until Wednesday. The election will be Tuesday, and by holding over until Wednesday, we will be able to let our readers know the result of the election.

To preach honest politics and to practice the preaching would be a most consistent political life. We have no hesitancy in saying that the supporters of Mr. Roosevelt had just cause for complaint in the Republican National Convention and very likely in the pre-convention fight. They charged fraud and so vehemently protested as to quit the party, its platform, nominees and policies. No other cause for the revolt was alleged and at the same time set up a third party, styled "The Progressive" and placed it under the inscription, "Thou shalt not steal." Well and good so far, but what of later, proceedings: Not content with the merit of their cause, not satisfied in resting their claims on the issues they raised in the old family, means of other kinds were employed to advance their interests, and, means that look to us as dark as the shadow of the Chicago convention. Passing the efforts to land Roosevelt the nominee in that convention, saying nothing about the attempt to control Southern negro delegates instructed for his opponent passing all of that and previous efforts to capture the Regular Republican nomination at a staggering expenditure of nearly $2,000,000 reports bring us to the contention in the state where the Progressives sought to advance their interests by the use of the Republican emblem in voting for electors. In all the states so involved, except California, the Progressives were ousted but in that state they outwitted, outlawed and took advantage unparalleled in political ruptures. As it stands now the Republicans of California are disfranchised by the party that rests its cause under the banner inscribed, "Thou shalt not steal." The Republicans of that state have no Taft electors on the ticket and have been deprived of the privilege. As a result Senator Works one of the ablest Progressive Republicans on the Pacific coast denounces Mr. Roosevelt and his party and advises all true Progressives to vote for the Democratic nominees. If it was wrong to steal a nomination as alleged, can it be right to force from a party its position and emblem in a state, and sweep it from the official ballot? Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not steal—Good motto, but better, so much better to live it.

Next Tuesday will decide the great national contest and set the country at rest for four more years. If the very best of signs do not miscarry the Democratic nominees will be elected by one of the most pronounced majorities any party has ever received in this great country of expanding industries and wealth. It may be said that the Democratic nominees are exceedingly fortunate by reason of the Republican war; it may also be claimed that this alone forms the base of Democratic victory, but the truth—the whole truth, is that such is not the case, and that Democratic victory rests on the demands of the great common people and by reason of this, the ruling party for the last half century is torn to pieces. The tariff is the real issue. There is no dodging this and wherever attempted falls flat. No longer are the millions who toil content to pay tribute to the protected interests that have prospered by governmental favoritism. The Democratic party advocates the doctrine that the government has no legal or moral right to collect a tax for any other purpose than to meet legitimate governmental expenses. It openly asserts that class favoritism is contrary to the spirit of the constitution, burdensome to the great mass of people and the wall behind which the Trusts are entrenched. The people are demanding its abolition and a tariff for revenue only and regardless of the split in Republican ranks Wilson and Marshall would be victors.

To reduce first the tariff on the necessities of life, put it higher on luxuries, repeal it on all articles sold cheaper abroad than at home, with a gradual reduction of the whole list to a revenue only basis is the program of the Democratic party as promulgated at Baltimore. Such a program ought to, and does, appeal to every man to whom the increased price of food and clothing is an appealing fact. The Republican plan of forcing people to pay more taxes than are necessary for an economically administered government is a crime which admits of no defense since the tax on many articles enables the trusts to put up prices and extort money from the people and pay little to the support of the government. The tariff is the paramount issue of the campaign and upon their promises with regard to it the Democrats are riding to certain victory. The interests have too long been monopolizing control of the government. The old and exploded claim of the Republicans that the consumer does not pay the tariff taxes no longer fools sensible people. Their pocket books have felt the weight of the absurdity and they will vote to change a system of taxation which breeds monopoly, encourages graft and enables a few to grow rich at the expense of the many. They know that a vote for Governor Wilson and the Democratic candidates for Congress assures the much needed change.

Democracy made a notable gain when United States Senator Works, of California, a few days ago declared for Wilson and called on all his friends to do likewise. He has always been a wheel horse Republican, with his leaning recently for Progressiveness, and might have supported Roosevelt but for the fraudulent manner in which his electors in California were obtained, though he does not regard Roosevelt as a real Progressive, being animated more by ambition and malice than a desire to secure Progressive legislation for the country. With Wilson as the only real Progressive the only course for honest Republicans, who are Progressives, to pursue is to vote for the Democratic nominee. The Wilson National Progressive League is daily receiving notable excessions. The number now exceeds 50,000 and it has headquarters in all the large cities. The whole trend of the country is toward Democratic principles and there seems nothing so sure as that Wilson will be elected. He cannot fail to be if every Democrat does his duty.

There is practically no doubt that the Democratic nominees in nine of the eleven Congressional Districts of the State will be elected. In the Tenth and Eleventh Districts, normally large Republican, the split in the G. O. P., gives the Democrats hope of success, even in those rock ribbed regions. With the Democrats and the Progressives to contest for the succession it is by no means sure that Mr. Langley will be re-elected, while the Hon. Ben V. Smith has a most excellent chance to beat Caleb Powers in the Eleventh District with Mr. Seavey, the Progressive candidate, to divide the Republican vote with him. Besides Powers has become unpopular because of his wishy-washy course and his inability to do anything for his constituents. A solid delegation in Congress is, therefore, not among the impossibilities. Let every Democrat strive for that most desired consummation.

The three cornered fight is but the natural consequences of a long reign of applied policies detrimental to common interests. It results from a strong demand of Republican voters to reduce the tariff and free business from the clutches of concentrated combinations that control the products of farms, factories and mines. The trusts must be suppressed, business freed and honest endeavor legitimately sustained, short of this no permanent settlement can be reached. The trusts must go and the people rule and direct the affairs of the country. This condition is a triumph for the Democratic party whose preachings have been constant and forceful for the last fifty years. It also means that no special interests will longer be permitted to sway the sovereignty of the country and force tribute in disguise. The final battle is at hand. The champions of honest government have no fears of the decision.

The Larue County Herald which has been one of the best county papers in the State, has changed hands. Messrs. Charles Ramsey Creal and Roy M. Munford, two practical men, having bought the plant and business.

ATTENTION
FARMERS and TIMBERMEN

Until further notice, we will pay the the following prices for SPLIT HICKORY and OAK SPOKES, delivered on our yard at Columbia, Adair County, Kentucky.

Split Hickory Spokes 30in. Long

Price per M Pieces

On Heart	Depth	Length	A & B	C	D
1 1/2 in. x	1 1/2 in.	30 in.	$14.00	$ 8.00	$6.00
1 1/2 in. x	1 1/2 in.	26 in.	12.00	6.00	5.00
1 1/2 in. x	2 in.	30 in.	18.00	10.00	7.00
1 1/2 in. x	2 in.	26 in.	16.00	9.00	6.00

All wanted 30 in long, shorter lengths taken only to save timber

All spokes must be split from good live, straight grained, Black or Shell Bark Hickory. Spokes that are brash, also containing defects such as worm holes, knots, bird pecks, wind shakes, sun checks and short crooks will be classed as culls.

These Spokes must be full in length and the 30 in. is wanted. All Spokes smaller than 1 1/2 x 1 1/2 x 30 in. long, will be classed as 26 in. or culled, depending on size.

All Spokes too small for 1 1/2 x 1 1/2 x 26 in. will be classed at the price of "C" grade of this size or culled.

Split Second Growth White Oak Spokes, 30 in Long

On Heart	Depth	Length	A & B	C
2 in. x	3 in.	30 in.	$30.00	$12.00
2 1/2 in. x	3 1/2 in.	30 in.	45.00	20.00

The A and B grade in Second Growth White Oak Spokes will admit of one third or less sap timber in sizes 2 x 3 in. and larger, if the spokes are free from all other defects, tough and heavy.

The C grade takes in Spokes that are more than one-third sap timber, but both grades must be split from Second Growth White Oak, showing a good growth.

Don't Split Brash Timber Into Spokes, as we cannot use them. Spokes that are brash, also pieces containing worm holes, knots, sun checks and short crooks will be classed as culls.

Will Commence Receiving the 10th of October.

All Oak Spokes must be 30 in. long. For further particulars call on or address,

We regret to lose Mr. C. C. Howard, the former editor, from the fraternity, but we welcome the new management, believing that the paper will continue to be one of the best.

National Democratic headquarters claim that the Presidency has been won for Woodrow Wilson, and the same opinion is general throughout the country. While Democrats are very confident, it would not be a good idea to quit working until the polls are closed.

Democrats of Adair, don't stay at home next Tuesday, but put in that day for the welfare of your party and country. The day of Democratic trailing in the rear has passed, and if you ever felt the tingle of victory, you certainly feel it now, and will be on the firing line early next Tuesday.

In the way of contributions to the National Democratic Campaign Fund, Kentucky comes sixth in the United States. A dispatch from headquarters says: "Kentucky has come nobly to the front and her example is an inspiration to the nation."

As to who will receive the greatest number of votes in Adair county, Taft or Roosevelt is a question. Wilson will easily carry the county.

The name of Hon. Harvey Helm, our Congressman, will be under the Democratic emblem, and there is no doubt about his re-election.

The campaign in Adair county has been remarkably quiet, but in our opinion a full vote will be polled.

Col. Roosevelt has very much improved, and will probably make a few speeches before the election.

Obituary.

Mrs. Flora T. Rowe, wife of Thomas L. Rowe who had been sick for some time was called home Oct., the 4th, 1912. She had been afflicted for some time before giving up. She bore her suffering with patience. Her voice was often heard upon the open air singing some sweet song giving God the glory. Her disease seemed to be unknown to her physicians but her soul seemed to be well acquainted with its Savior. Everything was done that loving hands could do to try to give the suffering body ease. A number of friends lingered by the bedside for 13 weeks watching and waiting for relief, but at last the Lord said it is enough come up higher. She was 29 years old. She professed faith in Christ several years ago and joined the U. E. church in which she had lived a devoted christian ever since. She leaves a husband and three little children, father, mother and one sister besides a number of friends to mourn their loss.

One little son had gone on and was waiting to welcome her in at the pearly gates. She said just before she died I will soon be with my little darling Lawrence. She called her three little ones to her bed and kissed them good bye and told them to be good children, and bade her husband a long farewell and gave advice to her friends and went to live with Jesus. Her body was laid to rest in the Rowe town grave yard. Bro Payne conducted the funeral services. Her friends and relatives gathered around the casket to take the last farewell look on earth. They laid her in the tomb to wait the judgment morning. Husband weep not, while it is our loss it is her eternal gain. Children remember mothers farewell words and seal them upon your tender hearts and live to meet her in that home above where you can live for ever more and never say good bye.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Teachers' Recital.

The teachers of expression, music and voice, gave a very interesting and pleasing recital at the Luesey Wilson chapel last Friday evening.

This was the first recital since the opening of school in September. A very large crowd was present, the Auditorium being filled to its capacity. The teachers were assisted by Miss Alice Walker pianist who was the accompanist.

First was a piano solo rendered by Miss Ethel Mary Crockett, "Waltz from Faust—in her skilled and easy manner. Next was a selection by Miss Bess Shannon, who is the teacher of Expression. She gave Hager, exceedingly well, and the audience applauded until she made her appearance on the stage again, and gave them a catchy little piece, entitled Mud Pies. Miss Crockett then gave a solo, The Message—a beautiful selection which was highly appreciated. Miss Shannon then gave another number, At long range, and My Ships. Miss Milliken sang a solo, The Bird in the woods, in her usual easy manner, and the audience applauded her and she came back and rendered a pleasing little piece entitled, No Sir, which was received cordially. Miss Shannon made her appearance again and gave another recitation, How Large Stakes were lost, a number rendered in a very accurate manner, and one of those interesting and exciting horse races selections which always captures the hearers. The last number on the program was a vocal duet by Miss Ruth Milliken and Miss Ethel Mary Crockett, Cheerfulness, which was highly pleasing to everyone.

This was the first appearance of Miss Shannon before a Columbia audience, and suffice to say, she proved to all who had the pleasure of hearing her, that she ranks among the best in her line. Miss Milliken, as a soloist, and Miss Crockett as musician, need no comment, as they are well known and always please an audience whenever they appear before the public.

Notice to Tobacco Growers.

Notwithstanding we have been unavoidably delayed in getting our material to build our plant, and the current rumor we would not be able to transact business this season, we are pleased to announce that we are now rapidly erecting the structure with a view of opening from 12 to the 15th of November next, and mean to announce by the 1st day of November the exact day for our initial sale. We trust that every tobacco producer will carefully consider the enormous saving in expenses of practically one dollar per 100 pounds, our market will show over the regular bids, market and we earnestly invite a studios comparison in prices. Our market is not founded upon the sympathetic words, home institution, but upon the rock ribbed business principle of getting more for the same article. The price you get for a commodity does not always represent the money you receive. The cash your tobacco brings is not the sale price, but the net proceeds depend on the expense necessary to market same. If we are correct in our approximation of one dollar difference per 100 pounds in sale expense, and we are sure, if the individual expense account of going in person to a hide, market to make said sale of tobacco of ten to fifteen dollars be added; then allotting 2000 pounds to be the growth of the average producer we would have in our favor nearly two dollars per 100 instead of one dollar as previously mentioned. Nor is this all, the paramount advantage as imbedded in the fact that any manufacturer will pay much more for an article he can thoroughly examine than for one the closest scrutiny and the best of skill can't possible determine its worth. We now have buyers on the ground with additional promises and we will do every thing possible to make our market second to none.

Now Mr. Farmer there is one thing you must know and that is the fore runner of good prices is proper classification, ordering and handling of your tobacco. If this one all important feature is not observed you cannot expect anything like satisfactory prices for the weed and the very few moments required to finish your product is but a twinkling as compared to the suicide of the labor required to mature it to the critical stage mentioned.

Bring your tobacco to your own market, not necessarily mine nor the stock holders but to yours, and bring it in the best possible condition, and we will use every effort in getting the highest market price. Thanking you for any patronage you may give, we are,

Yours very respectfully,
Greensburg Loose Leaf Tobacco Ware House Co.

On The Bridge.

Your scribe had the pleasure of attending the singing at the Burk Ford bridge Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There we met with an intelligent and representative crowd of two hundred people, who were more than well pleased with the best and prettiest bridge in the county. The people of that neighborhood turned out in force, and were the best dressed, best looking and the most orderly crowd we have ever met.

It would have done your soul good to have been there and heard the good singing from some of the best singers in the county.

We would give you the names of those who took part in the singing, but as there were some who participated, we did not know, we concluded not to mention any one.

We hope that some sweet day, not far distant, we can have the pleasure of meeting same crowd at same place.

The children who have been attacked in our school district with scarlet fever and diphtheria are greatly improved, the school having been dismissed on this account is again in session and progressing nicely.

The inhabitants of our town are making preparations for the teachers association which will commence here on the 26th of this month.

We understand that Mr. Otis Lewis has bought a part of Mr. Thomas Upton's farm, which is situated on the East side of the road about one mile Northwest of this place. Price $750.

Mr. U. P. Morgan, a well-known citizen of this vicinity has recently sold to a gentleman of Cumberland county, his farm. Mr. Morgan is widely known as a successful tobacco grower and dealer. He also runs a threshing machine. Should he locate outside of this neighborhood he will be greatly missed.

People of this town are expecting Bro. Wells and other sanctified, helpers of his, to arrive here on the 31st, to commence another meeting.

Bev King of color who has been running a barber shop here for some time, has recently sold out to Mr. Henry Hudson. The boys will be glad to have a shave and shampoo from him.

A nice bean hulling was given by Miss Anthem Wells on the night of the 23rd, to the boys and girls of this place. After the beans were shelled, we were invited into the parlor where some excellent music was rendered as Miss Wells is a splendid organist.

Dr. Wm. Blair who was attacked with a stroke of paralysis over a year ago still remains in a helpless condition.

Mr. Jasper Sparks and wife, Becks Store, Cumberland county, are visiting friends and relatives here at present.

Mr. John Helm and family who moved from Campbellsville to this place a short time ago left for Russell Springs where he will run a blacksmith shop.

Bradshaw and Murray who are stock dealers, of Montpelier, have been taking up a number head of cattle about this place during the last five weeks.

Mr. T. F. Andrew who resides near this place reported that he had raised eighty bushels of Irish potatoes this year.

The Peevish Child Needs a Laxative

It is natural for a child to laugh and play and when it sulks drowsily or cries you may depend on it something physical is the matter. If you see no evidences of a serious ailment you will not be wrong if you quietly give it a dose of mild laxative that evening on putting it to bed.

The remedy most generally recommended for this purpose is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which mothers throughout the country have been giving their children for a quarter of a century. Today thousands of families are using it where hundreds used it then, and there must be good reason for this word of mouth recommendation.

It is admittedly the perfect laxative for children, women, old people and all others who need a gentle bowel stimulant and not a violent salt, cathartic pill or doctored water. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will act gently, and when taken before retiring will bring complete satisfaction in the morning.

After a short use of this remedy all forms of outside aid can be dispensed with and nature will again act alone.

All classes of good American people keep it in the home for illis of the stomach, liver and bowels, and among the thousands who have written the doctor that they will never be without it are Mrs. J. W. Haynes, Brady, Ky., and Mrs. E. L. Weeks, 1744 W. 2nd St., Owensboro, Ky. A dose of it has saved many a person from a serious illness.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 408 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

Stranger Than Fiction.
When the doctor says, "You need no medicine."
When your wife refuses a new gown.
When a magazine accepts your poem.
When a girl declines to flirt.
When a vacation is a real rest.
When you have money after a bonny moon.
When a dentist can't find a cavity.
When your gold mining stock pays a dividend.
When you walk in the dark without barking your shins.
When your auto tire forgets to puncture on a hurry up trip.
When the horse you play to win comes in first.
When the girl you really love loves you.
When you have a good balance of cold cash at the end of the year.—Judge.

Not a Woman.
"I would like to have you take me to the theater some night, Mr. Kwere."
"I'm sorry, but I can't. I'll take you anywhere else."
"Why not to the theater? I know you go there, for you are a keen dramatic critic. Do you always go alone?"
"Yes, I do."
"But why?"
"I like to sit with somebody who is willing to let the performance speak for itself."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Comparative.
"I think it must be awful to have a wife that goes through your pockets every time she gets a chance in search of loose change," said Willoughby.
"Oh, that's only a minor affliction," said Barrows. "It's the wife that goes through your whole bank account that gets on my nerves."—Harper's Weekly.

No Excuse.
"Women are so unreasonable," said the baseball fan. "When I got home the other evening my wife was utterly depressed."
"What about?"
"That's what I'd like to know! Our team had won a beautiful game!"—Washington Star.

Limited Capacity.
"What are the wild waves, saying, mother?"
"I do not know, my child."
"But why do they dance all day long?"
"Well, my child, they cannot pass a bridge."—Kansas City Journal.

Its Future.
"We have formed a society to get a new depot for Plunkville."
"And what will become of your society after you get the depot?"
"By that time it will probably be suitable for an Oldest Inhabitants' association."—Pittsburgh Post.

A Reason For It.
"I hope you were polite to dad?"
"I should say so. I treated him as I would a king."
"You never called him 'your majesty'?"
"No, but I backed out of his presence."—Houston Post.

Acquainted In Court.
"And I suppose," said Miss Gushington, "that while in London you were at court?"
"Only once," admitted Mrs. Lashington, blushing. "But I wasn't guilty and I got off with a reprimand."—Newport News.

Woman's Progress.
Bacon—I see an electric motor to move a cradle or a child's rocking horse has been patented by a woman.

A Demagogue.
"Father," said the small boy, "what is a demagogue?"
"A demagogue, my son, is a man who can entertain an audience so thoroughly that people don't care what his personal opinions happen to be."—Spokane Chronicle.

Natural Preference.
She—Did they offer you any choice at the missionary bureau as to where you should be sent?
He—Yes, and I told them I'd prefer to go somewhere where the natives were vegetarians.—Boston Transcript.

Passing Strange.
The Struggling Lawyer (pompously)—Anything unusual happen while I was out?
Office Boy (after some thought)—Yes, there wasn't any debt collectors called.—Tit-Bits.

Unreasonable.
"It is useless to try to interest in any uplifting movement the silly women who wear such high heeled shoes."
"Well, could you expect them to come out flatfooted for reform?"—Baltimore American.

A Special Favor.
Customer—I want a ton of coal.
Dealer—Yes, sir. What size?
Customer—Well, if it's not asking too much, I'd like to have a 2,000 pound ton.—Brooklyn Life.

Learning to Draw.
Gibbs—I hear that your boy is going to a drawing school.
Dibbs—You can call it that. He's attending a dental college.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Be Happy!

Happy the girl, or woman, who has never suffered from any of the diseases of womanhood! Or, if she has been a sufferer, happy is she if she has learned of the wonderful benefits of Cardui, the woman's tonic!

Cardui is a gentle, tonic remedy, for women's ailments. It is a natural medicine—safe, harmless, purely vegetable. It has been in successful use for more than 50 years. It has cured thousands. It should do the same for you.

TAKE THE CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Mary Neely, of Denver, Tenn., says, "I think there is no tonic on earth, as good as Cardui. I used it with the very best results. I had backache and nearly everything a woman could suffer with, until I took Cardui. Now, I feel better than I have for two years. I shall always recommend Cardui to other suffering women. I can't praise it too highly. As a medicine for weak, tired, worn-out women, Cardui is safe and reliable. Try it, today.

MAKING THE LITTLE FARM PAY

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

A DAIRY pays just in proportion to the skill and care with which it is managed. Owners of little farms who have transportation facilities can afford to make a dairy the basis of their operations. A place of thirty to fifty acres will maintain a dozen cows, without excluding poultry, vegetables and fruit.

The way to make such a dairy pay is to establish a reputation for high grade milk, cream and butter. Private customers can be secured who will pay liberally for these commodities if they are sweet and wholesome and show evidence of intelligent handling. The owner must insist on cleanliness about the barn and in the pails and cans.

One problem of the dairyman is to keep the milk from being contaminated, either through dirt falling into it or by its absorption of undesirable odors. If the stables are clean, dry and well ventilated there will be no bad odors for the milk to absorb. Of course there should be no cesspools about the stables, and the ground under the barn should be well drained. Poor drainage cannot help but cause objectionable odors about the barn. The udder and the flanks of the cow should be thoroughly wiped with a damp cloth before milking.

One of the cardinal points that a good dairyman will observe in handling his cows is regularity in all his work. He will feed the cows at definite hours and milk them at stated intervals. If a cow is milked at 6 o'clock in the morning she should be milked again at 6 at night, the best results being obtained when the time between milkings is twelve hours. If for any reason it is advisable to

To produce a perfect plant there must be a perfect seed. planted in a perfectly prepared soil and cultivated by a trained intelligence. In just so far as there is a deficiency in any one of these particulars will the result fall short of a perfect crop.

KEEPING "BOARDER COWS?"

Or Are Your Animals the Kind That Pay For Food and Labor?

The cow, from an economic standpoint, is simply a manufacturing plant through which is run so much raw material in the form of nutrients to turn out the finished products—milk and cream. Many of these manufacturing plants are run at a dead loss, but their owners do not know it, as they are too indifferent to take the trouble to keep books so they can find it out. This is one of the lamentable defects

Photograph by University of Wisconsin agricultural experiment station.

SPECIMEN OF THE "BOARDER COW"

in farming as a manufacturing enterprise. In any other phase of industrial activity such negligence of business methods would spell bankruptcy. The Babcock test and a pair of scales make it possible for every farmer to keep accurate accounts with each cow in his herd, and where this is done it does not take long to convince the owner that the cow that does not pay her board and better move on. But as yet the major portion of dairy farmers have not risen to the point where they take each cow's production. Through the organization of co-operative cow dairies and associations in a number of the best states improvement is being rapidly made, but it is probably a safe estimate today to assume that 20 per cent of the milk producing cattle in this great dairy state of Wisconsin are not paying their owners for the feed and care which they require.

In these days, when modern machinery has so greatly reduced the relative use of hand labor, a lamentable lack of efficiency is shown where a man spends his time milking and caring for a number of animals whose requirements do not pay for the feed consumed, let alone the labor expended. Circular of Information, University of Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station.

Value of Alfalfa Hay.
That alfalfa hay contains more pounds of protein for each 100 pounds than any other kind of cured hay and also contains a large amount of carbohydrates are interesting facts brought out in a recent bulletin of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin.

Protect Your Post.
When making a cement hitching post re-enforce it with a good stout bar of iron. If you do not first thing you know some one will run against it with a heavy wagon and break it. The iron rod will strengthen the post.—Farm Journal.

change the feed of a herd it should be done gradually, so that the cows will become accustomed to the change and not get "off feed" so readily.

Cows should not be abused, as any ill treatment affects their milk production. On the contrary, they should even be petted, as they respond wonderfully to kind and gentle treatment in a way that is profitable for the owner.

One milker may be able to get 20 per cent more milk than another. The milker should not worry the cow by loud talking or abuse of any kind. A cow should be milked quietly and quickly, and as the last milk drawn contains far more fat than the first, special care should be taken to get all the milkings. In milking the whole hand should be used, closing first that part next to the udder. The cow's teats should be dry when she is milked. Wetting the teats is not only a filthy habit, but it also allows the teats to chap in bad weather. If there is difficulty in milking a cow dry a small amount of vasoline may be rubbed on the hands.

In the summer the cows get plenty of exercise, but they should be provided with a shady place where they can rest. In fly time it may be advisable to keep the cows in the barn during the day, darkening the windows to keep the insects out.

With ten or a dozen cows the farmer needs a reliable hired man, for there is a great deal of work in running a dairy, and it should be performed in a thorough manner. The family will find much to do in connection with the poultry, vegetables and fruit without undertaking all the drudgery of the farm and dairy.

It's the exceptional year—the season of adverse conditions—when really good farming shows itself superior to poor farming. Many a farmer loses his labor by failing to do the right thing at the right time in the right way.—Kansas Farmer.

FEEDS FOR DAIRY COWS.

Corn Silage Is Better Than Mixture of Field Peas and Oats.

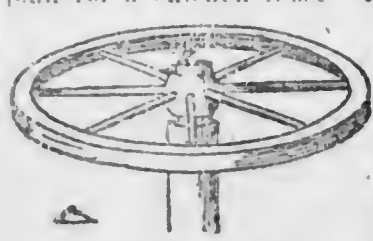

Canada field peas and oats sown on good soil and under favorable conditions will be ready for silage or ensilage in about two and a half months. The growing of oats and peas together, says Hoard's Dairyman, produces a larger amount of nutrients per acre than when grown separately. The combination works well and produces a very palatable feed.

In 100 pounds of corn silage there are 17.2 pounds of digestible nutrients and in 100 pounds of oats and peas silage about 13 pounds. The composition of all feedstuffs varies, especially when cut green; but, on the whole, it is safe to say that corn silage will contain more digestible nutrients than oats and peas, although the oats and peas are richer in protein.

It would not be advisable to sow clover or timothy seed with oats and peas, for they form a very dense growth which would not permit the young clover or timothy plants to grow, and, if they did, they would be so weak that after the peas and oats were removed, the sun's rays would be very apt to kill them. We do not think it advisable under any conditions to sow grass seed with oats and peas.

Novel Chicken Roost.

G. Dever, an Oklahoma subscriber of the Iowa Homestead, sent a unique plan for a chicken roost. Take a cart wheel and stab the axle into the ground or cut the axle in two, bolt it to a post and set the post in the ground. When the chicken house needs cleaning all you need to do is to lift the wheel off and it is out of the way. Then, too, if there is a chicken on the other side from you that you wish to catch, just turn the wheel around. This makes a very convenient chicken roost.

What the Lawyers Tell Us.

A lease which is altered after its execution and without the consent of the lessor by changing the dates of the commencement and termination of the term is void.—St. Louis Advertising Company versus Babiste, Mo 116 Southwestern 438.

A landlord who furnishes supplies to enable a tenant to make a crop is entitled to a lien for the price of the supplies, and it is immaterial whether the tenant could or could not have had the crop without them.—Fenniman versus Nowlin, 120 S. W. 379.

Every contract made for or about any matter or thing which is prohibited and made unlawful by statute is void, and hence, under the Arkansas statutes, which require the killing of glaucous animals, the sale of an animal affected with glanders is void. Comptessette versus McArmick, 126 S. W. 400.

Nell.

Health of this community is very good at present.

Mr. A. C. Pulliam and wife and little nephew, James Hunter, and also Mrs. Carrie Walker and two children, Miss Sidna and Master Hobson, spent several days in Cumberland county last week visiting relatives.

The Cost of Living.

Bradstreet estimates the rise of prices of the necessities of life as follows between 1897 and 1910:

In England	28 per cent
In Germany	43 per cent
In the United States	53.38 per cent.

The bulletin of the department of commerce and labor issued by our government, estimates the rise in wholesale prices between 1897 and 1910 at 46.7 per cent and the rise in retail prices was still greater.

Byron W. Holt estimates that prices increased during this period 60 per cent.

The last report of the Federal bureau of commerce and labor shows that prices are still soaring and that retail prices of many necessities in the last ten years have nearly doubled. Thus we note:

(1) That there is a world rise of prices of some 25 per cent on account of the increased production of gold.

(2) That high protective tariffs raise prices. Prices are 15 per cent higher in Germany under Germany's protective tariff than in England under free trade.

(3) That trusts raise prices. No where have trade combinations been able to establish monopoly prices as in the United States and it is here that prices soar most.

In the light of these facts we can readily understand why prices are 15 per cent higher in Germany than in England and 32 per cent higher in the United States than in England.

We also see that less than one-half the rise in prices is due to the increased production of gold and the balance is caused by the tariffs and the trusts.

The rise in prices caused by the increased volume of money and credits is wholesome because all share in the benefit. The rise caused by the tariff and the trusts is vicious because only a few share in the benefit. It is abnormal, artificial rise in prices that hurts and is causing the loud complaints of the cost of living.

To reduce the high cost of living to a natural level we must lower the tariff and free ourselves of the monopoly prices of the trusts; and inasmuch as the tariff is the mother of trusts, by taking down the tariff wall we will not only be rid of so much of the rise in prices as comes from the protective system, but of some of the rise that comes from private monopoly.
